Banquet Turkeys Reported Spoiled For Ulster's 'Vols'

Rumors Say Many Are Ill, but Larkin Says Board Has No Reports

What happened to the turkeys served Friday evening at the annual banquet of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association between the time they were roasted in the afternoon to the time they were served and placed before the firemen, is a mystery that plagued the local convention committee last night.

Roy Houghtaling, employed at the state armory, who had the contract to serve the turkey dinner, informed the banquet committee last night that the turkeys were okay when roasted, but he believed that the extremely humid temperature of the afternoon and early evening caused them to turn

To Leave City

BERWYN F. MATTISON

Has Been With State Six Years, in City Almost 3 Years; Aided Scouts

Dr. Berwyn F. Mattison, District State Health Officer, who has been with the Kingston office since September 1, 1943, is leaving the State Department of Health to accept a position as City Commissioner of Health in Yonkers on September 1, he announced today.

Dr. Mattison said he made the decision quickly after receiving an attractive offer from Yonkers municipal officials. He has been with the State Health Department for six years.

A successor to Dr. Mattison in the Kingston office is expected to be named within a few days.

Dr. Mattison came to Kingston from Rochester where he built an enviable reputation. While in Kingston he has been a member of the Committee on the Ulster County Medical Society and extremely active in health activities.

The child health consultation clinic in Ulster is the result of Dr. Mattison's untiring efforts to improve the health standards of the county. He also set up the county venereal disease plan similar to only three other such projects in the state. Dr. Mattison also stressed cancer education through the cancer clinic.

Dr. Mattison also served as

All Units In County Take Part

Seven Hundred Men Represent 55 County Companies at Annual Business Session

Pioneers Are Firm Vote Taken to Refuse if Band Rejected

Fire Chief Edward Mains of the Port Ewen Fire Department was unanimously elected president of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association, and Port Ewen selected as the place for holding the 1947 convention, at the 11th annual convention which convened Friday evening in the state armory on Manor avenue.

The convention opened with 700 delegates representing all of the 55 fire departments of Ulster county in attendance. The only business transacted, however, was the election of officers, so that the entire time could be devoted to the fine speaking program and excellent entertainment.

Pioneers Won't March Unless—

The music controversy which threatens to mar the big parade this afternoon, was not brought up on the convention floor, but action was taken at the close of the evening session when the local parade committee met with a delegation of members of the Pioneer Engine Co. in an effort to settle the question satisfactorily.

The Pioneer members, however, stated that they would not parade unless Clayton's Band, a non-union organization, of Ellenville, marched with them.

Following the conference the parade committee unanimously adopted a resolution to bar the Clayton Band from the parade this afternoon.

Every effort was made by the parade committee to induce the Ellenville fire company to march in the parade without the band and the Pioneer members were told that one of the Kingston fire companies, who had engaged a union band, offered to permit the Ellenville firemen to march behind that band so that the company would not parade without music.

Offer Is Declined

The offer, however, was declined by the Ellenville firemen as a spokesman of the company informed the parade committee that the Pioneers had held a special meeting last Monday night at which time it had voted not to parade unless the Clayton Band headed the fire company.

Members of the parade committee spoke briefly urging the Ellenville firemen to reconsider the action taken at the special meeting, and pointed out that the question of union hands refusing to march with non-union bands had not been brought to the committee's attention until July 7, when it was too late to take action.

The parade committee members said that it was then learned that the Musicians' Union had earlier in the year taken the matter of union and non-union music up with L. E. Dunne while he was serving as convention chairman.

Mr. Dunne later resigned as chairman, and the parade committee said the communication from the Musicians' Union had not been brought to the committee's attention until July 7, when it was too late to take action.

Officers Are Elected
The convention last night elected Robert A. Snyder of Saugerties, first vice president; Morton Finch of Wicks Engine Co., this city, second vice president, and re-elected Fred C. Harder of Kingston, secretary, and Henry DuBois of New Paltz, treasurer.

Three candidates were nominated for the office of director of the association. They were Edward Moran, whose term has expired, and Richard Greene and John A. Heaney of this city.

With three candidates in the field, the convention delegates, owing to the lateness of the hour, voted unanimously to defer the election of a director until the regular August meeting of the association which will be held in Kingston.

Jews Will Demand 100,000 Entries as Acceptance Price

Admission Would Take Place at Once, They Say, if Partition Goes Through

Paris, July 27 (AP)—Well informed Jewish sources said today that the immediate admission of 100,000 Jews to Palestine apparently would be the price for any Jewish acceptance of a British-American cabinet committee plan for partition of the holy land.

Jewish policy will not be determined until the Jewish Agency executive meets in Paris Monday, but these sources expressed belief that the future of the partition plan was largely contingent on a parallel acceptance of the speedy immigration for 100,000 refugees from Europe, as originally recommended by the official British-American States committee of inquiry last April 30.

Jewish sources declined to speculate whether these refugees could be accommodated in areas allotted to Jews under the British-American committee partition scheme, a point on which U. S. Secretary of State James F. Byrnes was silent last night when he disclosed the plan in Washington, with the comment that the British government had approved it.

The plan reported by Byrnes apparently was in connection with a proposal disclosed yesterday by sources close to the Jewish Agency, which said that independent talks between certain Jewish and Arab leaders had evolved a four-point program based upon the creation of separate Jewish and Arab states, each under United Nations mandate.

Gives No Details
Byrnes gave no details of the plan, but said it was "a detailed set of proposals for projected admission of 100,000 Jews to Palestine."

Both Jews and Arabs meanwhile appeared likely to be favorably impressed by the obvious implications of acceptance of the plan. Separate states under United Nations trusteeship would end the Jewish mandate, which both sides have long wanted. Washington dispatches, however, indicated that the British rule was being maintained under the British-American plan.

Some sources said they had learned that the British-American plan provided that 15 per cent of the land should go to the Arabs, 45 per cent to the Jews, and the remainder to special areas reserved as holy spots which would be internationally administered.

Clothing Cost to Increase 15-20 Per Cent Under O.P.A.

Planning to Save Life of Heirens

Two-Hour Conference Is Held in Jail Chapel With Youth

Chicago, July 27 (AP)—Attorneys for William Heirens reportedly mapped plans today to save him from the electric chair as the state marked time after formally accusing the 17 year old university student of slaying Suzanne Degnan and Miss Frances Brown.

The next scheduled step in the state's efforts to convict Heirens of the two slayings was his arraignment in criminal court next Tuesday on the indictments which were returned yesterday in criminal court.

A few hours after the indictments were handed to Chief Justice Harold G. Ward, Heirens, his parents and defense attorneys held a two hour conference in the Cook county jail chapel, with its religious background of the altar, the Stations of the Cross and a large painting of "The Last Supper."

Two Chicago newspapers, the Tribune and the Sun, said that Heirens recounted for his parents the details of the slaying of the six year old Degnan child last January 7, the shooting and stabbing of Miss Brown, 33 year old former Wave, on last December 10, and also admitted slaying Mrs. Josephine Ross, 43 year old widow, on June 5, 1945.

"The mother and father sat in stunned silence weeping, as they heard the story from their son's lips for the first time," the Sun said.

The newspapers did not name the source of their information and Roland Towle, one of the three defense attorneys at the conference, said the stories were "not true."

The Tribune and Sun stories could not be verified from any source. Heirens was not indicted for the slaying of Mrs. Ross.

After the youth's parents, George and Margaret Heirens, and the attorneys left the jail John Coghlan, chief of the defense counsel, told reporters: "This definitely is the day that there will be no comment."

The Tribune, in its account which it credited to "a county jail report," said Heirens "recounted for his parents the details of three murders, many burglaries and several assaults. This same reliable source reported that Heirens signed some documents and then his mother and father signed the same papers."

The Sun also said arrangements were completed for Heirens to give a written confession next Wednesday.

Price Men Forsee Cost of Living Will Bring Trouble to Americans

Washington, July 27 (AP)—Clothing price rises of 15 to 20 per cent were forecast by price officials today as the revived O.P.A. worked on new price increase orders.

Thirty to 40 ceiling actions were due for issuance during the day. None was of high importance but all were part of the feverish drive to get the economy back under the loose-fitting lid supplied by Congress after 25 O.P.A.-less days.

Yesterday, 143 such orders were signed. Barred by the new law from restoring ceilings on meat, milk and some other foods, O.P.A. turned to clothing as its gravest immediate worry.

Lacking control over raw cotton, and now required to pass along to the consumer any rise in costs of cotton or woolen material, price men said privately that they foresaw cost-of-living trouble.

Garment increases therefore may be among the early boosts authorized under the new pricing standards set by Congress. Yes—Continued on Page Ten

Conflict Is Ahead Over Red Demands For Reparations

Byrnes and Molotov Will Clash if Soviet Designs Hit Hungary

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, July 27 (AP)—A sharp conflict already is shaping up for the Paris peace conference between Secretary of State Byrnes and Russian Foreign Minister Molotov over Soviet reparation demands on Hungary.

The United States is insisting that a new economic deal in Hungary is essential to establishment of firm peace in Europe. It has protested strongly Red Army seizures of Hungarian foodstuffs and Soviet removals of Hungarian factories as well as current industrial production, contending the result in economic chaos in the Balkan nation.

The protest, made public by the State Department last night, highlights the difficulties confronting Byrnes as he sets out today for Paris and the 21-nation conference, opening Monday, which will write peace treaties for the former enemy states of Hungary, Italy, Bulgaria, Rumania and Finland.

Moscow Radio Gives Denial of Statement

London, July 27 (AP)—The Moscow radio presented what termed a "sufficiently convincing denial," last night of a statement by President Truman that the United States—although it had "royally" entertained guests from Russia—had been unable to get American visitors travel rights anywhere in the Soviet Union.

"X x x facts testify," said the broadcast, quoting a Tass report, "that representatives of American science and culture, as well as of other countries, were and are given full and many-sided opportunities of acquainting themselves with the life of the Soviet Union and with questions of the cultural and economic state system of the U.S.S.R. They are interested in."

"These facts speak for themselves, being a sufficiently convincing denial of the above-mentioned allegations made by Mr. Truman," the broadcast said.

The comment by the Soviet News Agency was in response to a statement made by President Truman in a letter to Sen. Brewster (R-Me.) on May 27 in which the President replied to a suggestion made by Portland, Me. Y.M.C.A. directors that mutual relations between the U. S. and Russia would be stimulated by exchanges of visits by American and Russian government officials and students.

Taste, Aroma Bad

The great majority of the firemen last night merely took one taste of the turkey and then pushed their plates aside. The aroma alone was an indication that the turkey was spoiled in this reporter's opinion.

All of the turkeys served last night to the firemen had been roasted outside the armory, and when cooked were delivered there.

Houghtaling informed the banquet committee that the turkeys were spoiled, and gave as his opinion that the warm weather caused the cooked turkeys to spoil.

"It takes more than a spoiled turkey to disable a volunteer fireman," said President Edward Mains of the county organization, when seen today, and he said he expected to see all of the firemen who attended the banquet marching in the parade this afternoon.

Schooner Is Unreported

Greenwich, Conn., July 27 (AP)—The schooner "Ralph Forbes," with an 11-man crew from the Merchant Marine Academy at Kings Point, L. I., was unreported last night as officials came ashore after a 170-mile sailing race from Antucket to Riverside. Race officials had waited at the finish line for the schooner to appear for hours, although the five yachts that finished the race had reached here early this morning. A third craft dropped out today.

Southern Hotel Fire
Atlanta, Ga., July 27 (AP)—A midnight blaze confined to the ninth floor of the 11-story Piedmont Hotel caused hundreds of the hotel patrons to flee to the street last night. Manager Sam Tarrott reported the blaze was confined to three rooms but could not estimate the damage caused mostly by water. He said all of the hotel's 450 rooms were occupied. No one was injured.

U. N. Commission Prepares For Series of Sites Meeting

New York, July 27 (AP)—The United Nations Headquarters Commission prepared today for a series of meetings with local groups concerned in the 15 potential sites for permanent U.N. Headquarters now being studied in Westchester county, N. Y., and Fairfield county, Conn.

At the conclusion of a meeting at White Plains, N. Y., yesterday Sir Angus Fletcher, chairman of the commission, announced that within the next few days he would submit to Westchester County Executive Herbert C. Gerlach the tentative list of sites in that county and ask for early meetings with local authorities.

The list of potential sites in Fairfield county will be submitted to Judge Henry Hunt of the Connecticut Intergovernmental Committee, with a request for similar local meetings.

Yesterday's meeting was attended by representatives of four Westchester townships — Lewisboro, Poundridge, Bedford and Harrison—and by the special U.N. Sites Committee of the county Board of Supervisors.

They were given a list of questions to be answered by the local groups concerned when the commission starts screening the present list of 15 sites down to the five which it has announced it will submit to the general assembly for consideration in September.

Firemen's Parade Begins at 3 P. M. From East Strand

Ideal Weather at Hand for Annual Turnout of Volunteers of County

Ideal weather greeted the Ulster county volunteer firemen this morning as they prepared to roll into Kingston at noon to take part in the big firemen's parade that brought the 11th annual convention of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association to a colorful close today.

Temperatures this morning in the city ranged from a low of 45 degrees at 5 a. m. to a reading of 64 degrees at 9 o'clock, and indications that the weather would not be unbearably hot for the volunteers as they marched over the four-mile parade route this afternoon.

Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy, grand marshal of the parade, planned to start the parade promptly at 3 o'clock, at which time the majority of the stores in the city had planned to close to that the employees could view the parade.

First in City in 11 Years

Today's parade is the first firemen's parade in the city in 11 years. It was in July, 1936, that the first parade of the county association was held in Kingston, at which time 15 fire departments were in the line of march.

Line of March

Starting at the corner of East Strand and Broadway, the parade will proceed up Broadway to Maiden Lane, to Wall street, to North Front street to Fair street to Main street to Clinton avenue, to Albany avenue to Manor avenue to the State Armory where the parade will be dismissed. The parade will be reviewed from the reviewing stand in front of the city hall, by Mayor William F. Edelmuth, city officials and county officers.

The exceptionally fine weather brought thousands of visitors to Kingston, and the sidewalks along

I. C. C. to Study Adirondack Fares, Company Profits

New York, July 27 (Special)—Implicated in a sweeping order of the Interstate Commerce Commission calling for scrutiny of passenger fares charged by 300 bus companies operating interstate, the Adirondack Transit Lines, Inc., of 496 Broadway, Kingston, today faced investigation to determine whether its profit figures for recent months are in line with standards set by the commission.

A spokesman for the I.C.C., in revealing the proposed examination of the companies, classified as "Class 1" carriers, said their net incomes for the period from January, 1945, through March, 1946, approximated 18 to 20 per cent, which he termed unduly high.

The proposed investigation is the first to be instituted by the commission's Bureau of Motor Carriers since it was founded in 1935. Hearings are not expected until fall, it was said, to allow the carriers to "stabilize" their operations.

Awards Word on Record For Glider Altitude
Orlando, Fla., July 27 (AP)—Paul Tunland of Los Angeles, Calif., today was awaiting official action on his claim of a new world altitude record for two-passenger gliders.

Tunland, a civilian pilot engaged in the U. S. Weather Bureau's thunderstorm project at Pinecastle Army Air Field here, reported he soared 18,700 feet above the point of release from a tow plane, or 22,700 feet above sea level.

The present record of 14,900 feet for two-passenger sailplanes was set August 12, 1940, by the late Maj. Lewin Barringer.

Censorship Imposed
Stockholm, July 27 (AP)—A limited censorship has been imposed on information concerning unidentified missiles—believed to be flying bombs or rockets—which have been sighted over Swedish territory in recent weeks. Authorities have banned the publication of names of localities where the missiles have been sighted and newspapers have been required to use the dateline "somewhere in Sweden," when writing about the subject.

St. Andrew's Walden Becomes "Free" Church The vestry of St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, Walden, has taken action making it a "free" church, thus breaking a tradition that extends back 175 years. The vestry voted to discontinue the custom of renting some of the pews.

It was back in December, 1771, that the vestry voted to auction off pews to members, subject to an annual rent, to raise money for the church. St. Andrew's is said to be one of the few remaining churches in this section that held to the old custom of rented pews.

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

By ROMNEY WHEELER (For Hal Boyle)
London, July 27 (AP)—A broad-shouldered grey-haired police officer looked up from a pile of papers and grinned happily.
"The bombing of the King David Hotel in Jerusalem won't hinder our recruiting. The kind of young men we're interested in aren't deterred by that sort of thing."
The police officer was James Munro, superintendent of the Palestine police force. The papers were part of the flood of applications and inquiries which are flooding the crown offices in Whitehall as the result of an intensive recruiting campaign.
The Tri-Lingual, semi-military peace agency of the Holy Land is seeking 2,000 recruits in Britain. Munro estimated that 10,000 inquiries had been received since the campaign began July 1. Posters offering 20 pounds ($80) a month and full board, keep and uniforms are being plastered all over England in an effort to "sell" the opportunities of the Palestine force to ex-service men and others in the 18-28 age bracket.
Not all who apply are accepted. Munro said each applicant must be single, must be of English stock, must have good education and ability to learn languages as well as to do police work. Higher posts are filled solely from the ranks, and no man can advance until he is proficient in Arabic, or Hebrew, or both.
Men of Jewish or Arab extraction are not accepted, Munro said, and must join the so-called Palestine force which normally is recruited in Palestine.
Before the war, there were about 3,000 in each force. The 2,000 new enlistments are expected to bring up the British force to 5,000, which even then will be smaller than the Palestinian unit's present strength.
Political negotiations over the future of Palestine have small interest for Munro.
"We are there to keep the peace," he says. "We'll go on keeping the peace, no matter what international arrangements are decided on."

Town of Marbletown Has Public 'Loan Closet'

High Falls, July 26—The "Loan Closet" maintained by the Marbletown Public Health Nursing Committee has been moved from the Stone Ridge Library to the town clerk's office, in order to make it more accessible to the general public. In this closet are such items as: first aid equipment, a wheel chair, several pairs of crutches, a bedside table, crib, bassinet, etc. Milton Elmendorf, the town clerk, has kindly consented to check out articles from this closet to those needing them.
The new closet was made by Archie Lawrence and accommodates a great deal of material. Mrs. Mary Dickerman, R. N., former president of the Nursing Committee, started the movement for transfer of these supplies to this more central location. Some of the larger articles and those not needed in haste are still at the library. The Nursing Committee is very grateful to the Library Association and to Miss Anna Rudenbach, who had charge of them, for cooperation in the handling of this equipment.

The "Loan Closet" was started by the Young Men's Club with Mrs. Charles Walden, Jr., and Miss Rudenbach, and many others, making linens, etc., for the use of the public. Many of the articles and supplies have been and still are provided by this club. The Nursing Committee was then organized with Mrs. Walden as its first president. They did a great deal of pioneer work in securing more public health nurses for the town of Marbletown and she will be very glad to advise anyone concerning the use of articles from this closet. Mrs. Ernest Jansen is the present president of the Nursing Committee.

'Borderline' Workers Excluded from Act

Washington, July 27 (AP)—President Truman has signed an appropriation bill which will exclude "borderline" agricultural workers from provisions of the Wagner Labor Relations Act.

The bill, carrying $1,155,015,670 for the Labor Department and the Federal Security Agency, also returns the United States Employment Service to state operation November 15. The President approved it late yesterday.

A Senate amendment provided that none of the funds for operation of the Wagner Act shall be used on cases involving agricultural workers. It stipulated that this means agricultural workers as defined in the Wagner Act, rather than the definition of such employees contained in the Social Security Act.

The C.I.O. food and tobacco workers asserted the amendment would exclude 1,000,000 persons from protection of the Wagner Act.

THE CAMERA CORNER

Home Is Where The Photos Are

How many times have you heard a mother say: "If I could only take pictures what wonderful shots I could get of the children at home!" Too often that sparkle and that impish grin seem to fade under the lights and unfamiliar surroundings of a photographer's studio. And you have just another portrait.

Home is the place to get the story-telling pictures that suggest themselves nearly every day, those unposed pictures that have to be taken now—or never. Billy with his new toy boat, or his new cocker spaniel or lighting his first firecracker. Mary, dressing her best doll or playing house.

Well, the only solution is for mother to learn to take pictures. At first, of course, she will get her best results outdoors. But what she really wants are the little, everyday events around the house. Let her thumb through current magazines. Look at the ads featuring children, particularly those the same age as her own. Notice the plain backgrounds. If she were copying one of those pictures, where in her own home would she do it?

Shooting The Baby Let's take the baby first. Usually he's propped up on a pillow or lying in bed. Push the bassinets over near a window but watch those shafts of sunlight—they'll spoil a picture. Get a bridge lamp or one of those goose-necked desk lamps. Put a photoflood bulb in it and point it at the baby on the opposite side from the window. Don't let the baby stare at the light. Stand up on a chair and shoot down, being careful that the bulb doesn't shine on the camera lens.

The rascal is now six months older, still unable to sit alone, and the high chair is the best place to photograph him. Use the same lighting arrangement, but don't try it when he's fretful. Use that favorite rattle and those special gurgling noises when you're ready to shoot.

Lighting for Portraits For the older child bring out the kitchen stool or the piano bench. Find the plainest wall in the house and remove the pictures. Place the stool as far from the wall as possible so that no shadows are reflected on it. From one side shine the bridge lamp down on the child at a 45 degree angle. Set the camera on a table with the desk lamp beside it shining at the subject. In each lamp there's a photoflood bulb, of course.

But by this time mother has probably become an avid fan. She has gone out and bought the camera with the flash attachment, the flood lamps with built-in reflectors and she is busily snapping the unexpected pictures that will make her album ten years from now.

What if the dinner is a little late?

PICTURE OF THE WEEK. The recipe for this appealing is simple. Take two fox terrier pups and an old hat. Assemble them on a table about three feet from a plain wall. Set up your camera and a few feet to the right of it and a little higher place or hold a flashlamp. At the left and closer to the pups use a white cardboard reflector. This one was taken with isopan film with an exposure of 1/50 second at f 32. Remember in animal pictures: the darker the fur, the more light you will need.

1. I have difficulty in keeping my solutions at the 68 F. temperature recommended for processing Ansco Color Film. Do you have any suggestions for helping me on this point?

ANSWER: A constant temperature may be maintained if the trays containing the color processing solutions are placed in a larger tray or sink which contains water of the correct temperature. Usually 68 F. may be secured by mixing cold and hot water from the taps. However, sometimes in hot climates conditions necessitate the use of ice in order to bring the temperature down to the specified 68 F.

2. When I dry glossy prints on my ferrotype tins, I am frequently disappointed to find that some areas of the print do not shine the way they should. What causes this?

ANSWER: This defect is a common one which is usually easily corrected. After placing the wet prints face down on the ferrotype tins, sootseeee on thoroughly to insure complete contact between the print and the ferrotype tin. Also, the use of Ansco Flexigloss will assist in obtaining high quality glossy finish prints.

3. What should be my shutter speed to get good pictures of waves breaking on the shore in bright sunlight?

ANSWER: You will get good results with a shutter speed of about 1/75th or 1/100th of a second. Although higher shutter speeds are required to absolutely "freeze" such waves, illusion of motion is better maintained if the waves are allowed to blur very slightly.

Kerensky Insists Red Regime Would Fail

San Francisco, July 26 (AP)—Alexander Feodorovich Kerensky, head of the Russian government for 100 days after the 1917 revolution, was back in the United States today, holding to his repeated prediction that the present Soviet regime would collapse.

He arrived here yesterday after nearly 10 months in Australia and left last night for his home in New York.

Kerensky was elected premier of the first Russian government after the Czar's abdication, and fled his homeland in 1918.

"I shall return when the elementary rights of a human being are guaranteed there," he said yesterday. "I won't say in two years or five, but it can't be much longer."

Some of the reports said the missiles looked like "swans without a head," "seagulls" and "jet planes but with a sound weaker than usual."

Many Swedes are convinced the launching grounds are somewhere on the southeastern side of the Baltic sea. Other say they believe the missiles come from the area of Petsamo or Karelia. (All these areas are Russian-controlled.)

Military searchers, however, have been unable to recover any of the missiles to determine their origin because they landed in lakes or other inaccessible places. All reported missiles and their course are being recorded on a map.

Stockholm, July 26 (AP)—The Swedish defense staff has received more than 500 reports so far this month from observers who said they saw flying "fire balls" skimming through the sky. Swedish newspapers said "Sweden is a testing range for rocket missiles."

Stage and Radio Star
Enacts Leading Role
At Woodstock Theatre

KAY STROZZIO

For its next show, opening Tuesday at the Woodstock Playhouse, producing S. N. Behrman's highly sophisticated comedy "Biography," with Kay Strozzio in the role made famous on Broadway by Ina Claire.

"Biography" tells of a successful portrait painter, a lady with rather colorful past, who decides to publish the story of her life, and what happens when the men who figure in the story hear that they are to appear in print. It is one of Mr. Behrman's finest plays. Famous for his crackling dialogue, "Biography" contains some of the most brilliant scenes he has ever written.

Born in Chicago, Kay Strozzio studied at the American Academy of Dramatic Art. She made her first stage appearance with the celebrated Stuart Walker company in Cincinnati and later played leading roles there. Since then, she has been one of the busiest of American actresses, appearing with Ethel Barrymore in "The Constant Wife," with Charles Coburn in "Moroni," with Maurice Evans in "St. Helena," and in many other Broadway productions. As well known to radio audiences as to theatregoers, Miss Strozzio has been heard on the air more than 20 outstanding programs, among them "Cavalcade of America," many Columbia Workshop presentations, "Road to Life" and "Hilltop House."

Appearing in support of Miss Strozzio will be Houston Richards, seen last week on the Playhouse stage in "Double Door," and Alexander Ivo, who was seen as Lord Jordan in "Heaven Can Wait" and as a character in "The Great Escape."

Others in the cast include Stephen Elliott, Robert Gill, Lois Clair and Michael Sivy. "Biography" has been directed by Mary Morris, and will run through Sunday August 4.

Maverick Trio Lists
Jean Cras' Composition

One of the works to be played by Persinger-Britt Trio Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Maverick Concert, Woodstock, is composed by Jean Cras in 1926. It will be his Trio in A major.

Jean Cras has the distinction of having attained fame as a composer and at the same time as an officer in the French Navy. He held the rank of admiral when he died in 1933.

Each one of the four movements of his string trio is supposed to be an impression of some part of the world which he visited in the course of his cruises. However, the printed score does not mention which parts of the world he had in mind. That is left to the imagination of the listener. It is rich in melody, color and rhythm. The work was composed on board the French cruiser, "Lapointe-Picquet," while stationed at Lorient, Brittany, France, in the spring of 1926.

The other work on the program tomorrow will be Mozart's "Trio in E Flat Major."

Borrelli-Carrino Wedding
Takes Place in Marlborough

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Rose Carrino, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Carrino to Benjamin Borrelli, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Borrelli, all of Marlborough. The ceremony was performed July 20 at 4 p. m. in St. Mary's Church, Marlborough, by the Rev. J. J. Hanley.

The bride wore a white mouseline de soie and lace gown and carried roses and an orchid. She was escorted by her father. Mrs.ilda Lodato was matron of honor and wore a pink chiffon gown. Anthony Carrino was best man in the bridegroom.

The bride's mother wore a black dress with flowered applique and a black dress with green trim. Both wore black elbow length gloves.

The bride attended Washington State High School in Manhattan and is a member of St. Mary's Church of Marlborough. She is employed in Kordon's Fur Shop in New York City.

Borrelli served in the navy and is now in the Hawaiian Islands. He attended Marlborough High School and is affiliated with the Products Corp.

Mr. and Mrs. Borrelli will reside at Grand street in Marlborough after a wedding trip to Saratoga.

At Hasbrouck Park

The band concert Sunday evening will be held at Hasbrouck Park with a repeat performance of the program given last week. Because of the rain, the concert was given in the Municipal Auditorium. This is the procedure any Sunday evening when the weather does not permit an outdoor performance.

The concert will start at 8 o'clock and will feature Richard Castiglione as trumpet soloist. The program will be Star Spangled Banner; Lieutenant Santelmann's March, Rosenkranz; King Rose Overture, Barnard; Lights Out March, McCoy; sextet from "Lucia," Donizetti; The Thunder March, Sousa; The American Patrol, Meacham; The Bridal Rose Overture, Lavelle; The Connecticut March, Nassau.

Rose Griffo and Harold Smith,
Both of Highland, Are Married

Miss Rose Griffo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Griffo of Highland was married to Harold Smith, son of Mrs. Louise Smith, also of Highland, July 14 at the Presbyterian Manse in Highland. The Rev. Frederick A. Shimer officiated.

The bride wore a chartreuse afternoon dress and carried an arm bouquet of white and pink roses and gladioli. She was given in marriage by her father, Miss Alice Cutler as the bride's only attendant.

Sol Sobsey acted as best man for the bridegroom. A reception for 58 guests was held at the Griffo home.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith will make their home on Main street, Highland, in a house which was a wedding gift from the bridegroom's mother.

WHEN GUEST OF HONOR
FAILS TO LEAVE

A guest of honor who often causes embarrassment to others is noted in these questions and answers: (1) Is the guest of honor at a party supposed to leave first before anyone else makes a move to go? (2) Sometimes it isn't possible to outstay a guest of honor who lingers on and on. Will you explain this conventional detail?

Answers: (1) When she is a real one, yes. (2) When really necessary, the one who has to leave apologizes. There is no explanation other than you show the older or more distinguished person this courtesy.

Eight-Year-Old Junior
Bridesmaid

Dear Mrs. Post: My eight-year-old niece is presenting my great-aunt wedding problem. She is too tall and old for a flower girl. I'm not sure how to have her take part as a junior bridesmaid. It would like to have three other attendants of my own age. I don't see how I could expect one of the ushers to walk out of the church with a little girl.

Answer: If she is too tall for a flower girl, you could put her in a long dress that is a youthful adaptation of the bridesmaid's dress and have her walk up the aisle ahead of the bridesmaids as a junior bridesmaid. The recession is not a problem because it is not correct for the ushers to walk with the bridesmaids. The best man does not walk in the recession but goes back to the chancel to give the fee to the clergyman. According to formally correct precedent, the recession is the processional in precise reverse, with one notable replacement: The bridegroom for the bride's father!

Greeting a Receiving Line

Dear Mrs. Post: When one arrives at a very large official reception during a lull in the receiving line and faces a rather formidable line of officers, how does one know whether one is to shake hands with each person in the line or merely to pass on and bow to the line as a whole?

Answer: One shakes hands with the person at the head of the line and with the second if she (or he) is paying attention. The formality of a line to which you courtesy or bow has practically disappeared in the present day.

How would you prepare an outdoor affair? Send for Mrs. Post's leaflet, "A Wedding in the Garden," in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman and enclose a 3-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope.

LEARNING TO OCCUPY

Americans have paid little attention to military affairs between wars. They have regarded war as abnormal, peace as normal. They have gone so far as to have been unwilling to give every young man a brief period of military training, although the knowledge that this was being done, spread around the world, would have been the strongest possible means of keeping other nations from thinking of us as easy marks.

When war came, we hastily built an army, gave it hasty training for immediate war, hastily converted field and industry to feeding, clothing and arming these hastily trained troops. Victory has been ours, but with immense waste, human and material, which might have been avoided with a little more forethought and willingness to face the world as it is.

Now a new problem is here for which we are as unprepared as ever we were for war. While in the act of fighting and liberating, our men were viewed with favor overseas. Now, in occupation, they are losing that respect and appreciation. The chief reason is that the men do not know why they are there. No one has clearly explained that the present task is not merely finishing up a war, but that of handling conquered peoples, a new work, for which they have not been adequately trained.

We are in for a long occupation. The job involves feeding, policing, educating; planting in the mind of occupied nationals a healthy respect for our power and decency. Young men drawn from farms and factories into these foreign jobs do not learn such duties overnight. They need solid training and full explanation of the purposes for which they are being sent.

It is high time for the nation to take training for occupation seriously.

DIGNITY FOR DOMESTICS

With many young women war-workers now looking for other employment, and many housewives seeking badly needed help, domestic service is being considered in a new light.

Realizing that standards should be set up for employers as well as employees, a group of women in one mid-west city formed a committee on household employment. Girls were recruited through U.S.E.S. and were convinced that when they became skilled domestic workers, they would belong to an honorable profession.

Training covered not only regular household techniques, but such skills as the proper handling of telephone calls and of door-to-door salesmen, serving at teas, caring for children, and fine laundry work. When these carefully trained young women enter homes where they are treated with respect, given comfortable rooms of their own, a reasonable amount of freedom and privacy, and adequate payment for their services, the problem should be solved.

There always remains, however, the personal equation. In the last analysis, it is primarily the relationship between the housewife and her helper that makes for happiness or unhappiness.

Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, United States commander in Europe, has lost no time in proposing to the Allied Control Council that the four segments of Germany be operated as one unit for economic purposes. He further carried out instructions from Washington, resulting from Secretary Byrnes' recommendations, by offering to merge the American zone with any of the other three if unified action is not possible.

THE DEMOCRATIC CLEAVAGE

The Democratic party has to face the fact of divided leadership and authority. The cleavage is frank and in some respects is wider within the Democratic party than between Democrats and Republicans. The bulk of the party ordinarily would be led by the President Harry Truman; the vociferous minority is actually led by Senator Claude Pepper, James Roosevelt, and Harold Ickes.

Mr. Roosevelt, on the whole and with rare exceptions, did manage to hold together the irreconcilable elements that composed his following. He managed to hold Earl Browder, Sidney Hillman in line with Wilho and Rankin. It was an amazing political feat. Perhaps the principal reason for his success was his insistence upon a recognition of his leadership and his punishment of those who doubted him, but even more, his powers of sly restraint served him well. He tried not to shoot until he could kill. The one time he announced a purge in anger and unprepared, he largely failed.

Mr. Truman, temperamental, a gentle and kindly man, loses his temper too easily and too candidly. Also, he appraises men and situations poorly. His acceptance of Senator Pepper's advice rather than Senator Barkley's on O.P.A. is beyond understanding, for whereas Pepper makes a loud noise that often sounds like the "Volga Boatman," sung after a vodka party, Barkley commands the respect of his colleagues, Republicans as well as Democrats, who could, and undoubtedly will, come to his defense should it be necessary.

It is true that Mr. Truman's candor makes a strong appeal to those who are weary of clever liars in high places. His decision candidly to be a political President—which all Presidents have more or less been—represents a relief from camouflage and chicanery. But when he permitted Senator Wheeler, whom he supported to be defeated by the Left-Wing of his own party, he established the impotence of his leadership. Surely, in a contest between Jimmy Roosevelt and anybody, Jimmy Roosevelt should be all odds lose; yet, Jimmy Roosevelt won against Truman in the Wheeler primary. He established a Left-Wing authority over the Democratic party.

This is not commendable in the defense of Senator Shipstead, who, after all, was fighting Harold Stassen in a state which had elected Stassen to the governorship and which knew that the re-election of Shipstead would withdraw from Stassen even a fighting chance for the Presidency. He is entitled to that fighting chance, whatever it may be worth. Besides, the more conservative Republicans recalled Shipstead's earlier radicalism and the uncertainty of his vote on economic measures.

In Montana, the question, toward the end of the primary, was whether Mr. Truman's influence within his own party was of any value to a candidate. It was decided that whether the labor union could punish a President by reprisal. The result showed that Mr. Truman could not even control Jimmy Roosevelt, who has shown the color of his sympathies in his support of Hugh D. Lacy in Seattle. De Lacy following the Communist party line all the way through. Yet, Mr. Truman could not make a telling impression on Democrats in Montana in support of Senator Wheeler, who has been a pillar of strength in a political rubble-heap.

Mr. Truman's offer to campaign for members of Congress, if they need his aid, may produce some queer results. Suppose it turns out that nobody can afford to accept his assistance; suppose he establishes himself as a liability—then his leadership within his own party becomes nil. It was a risky and unnecessary challenge; yet, its purpose was clear, for what the President really sought to do was to purge Mr. Slaughter of Missouri. And should that purge fail, what becomes of Truman?

It was not sound for this country to have more than two major parties. The rank of schemers who are splitting the Democrats are performing their task with the object of seizing control of that party in 1948. They are opposed to Truman. They seek his humiliation. What they are likely to discover by 1948 is that in many parts of the country, Republicans and Democrats will unite to keep out those who dare not fly their own colors. That should still happen in Montana.

CUTTING DOWN ON SALT

As table salt is so necessary to the health of human beings and animals, any cutting down on table salt must mean that there is something wrong with, or different in, the body of the individual.

We know that salt is needed in increased amounts during hot weather as so much escapes from the body in the perspiration. We also know that too much salt must not be used by overweight as salt holds excess water in the tissues, thus adding to the weight of the individual. We also know that table salt must be cut down in epilepsy and also in dizziness as excess water (held in tissues by salt) causes these attacks.

That table salt or foods rich in salt is the cause or partial cause of sleeplessness is reported by Dr. Michael M. Miller, Washington, D. C., in the Journal of the American Medical Association. It would be well therefore for all troubled with sleeplessness to again read this report of twenty patients with marked insomnia, nervous tension, anxiety and increased emotional instability—16 men and 4 women aged 20 to 53. Six had been morphine addicts, six merchant seamen with convy fatigue, insomnia and anxiety, and eight with various forms of odd behavior. All were observed at least a week before the foods rich in salt were reduced in their diet, during which time behavior in the ward and during the night were noted. This included examinations of blood and urine and tracing of brain waves before, during and after use of salt reduced diet. These foods rich in salts such as butter, eggs, corned and pickled meats were reduced and foods low in salt—unsalted bread, apples, lettuce, honey, lemons, oranges—were used instead.

Full or partial relief from sleeplessness and tension occurred in all but three patients. In 10 of 13 again given a diet rich in salt, sleeplessness and nervous tension returned. Improvement was noted generally in the length of time the patients slept and the regularity of their sleeping time, together with less emotional instability during the day.

Remember, everybody needs some salt daily, but for those who find they are not getting enough sleep, cutting down on salt in and on food, is worth trying.

"At Century's Turn"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

The years when sleigh riding parties were a highlight of the social season among the younger generation was recalled today when I read a clipping from The Freeman of the destruction by fire on December 14, 1931, of The Chateau, a well known road house on the Saugerties road.

To the older generation The Chateau was better known as the Red House, by which name it was known for years. The Red House in the Gay Nineties and the early 1900's was the scene of many gay festivities in the winter when sleigh riding parties would drive out to the resort and enjoy a chicken dinner, dancing and bowling.

The Chateau, as it was known in later years, was a two story frame building with a one story addition in the rear which is the years when the resort was known as the Red House housed the bowling alleys. In later years the alleys were removed and the one story addition divided into rooms.

In a number of sketches in the series I have recalled the old sleighs that were popular including the White Swan, which would seat 35 people comfortably.

The Jacob Forst Packing Co. on Abel street on December 12, 1931, threw open to public inspection its new million dollar packing house, which had just been completed and placed in operation. Many residents of Kingston visited the new plant that day.

The plant stands on the site of old Washington Hall which the older generation will recall for the many balls and other festivities held there. The Rondout Social Mannerchor for years held its annual masquerade ball in Washington Hall.

At its meeting on December 8, 1931, the Board of Fire Commissioners appointed Fred A. Williams and Joseph L. Diamond as members of the paid fire department. They assumed their duties on December 15, of that year.

William B. Terwilliger died on December 13, 1931, in his home on East Union street. For 14 years he had been employed as one of the inspectors of the city's water department.

Prior to that for a number of years he conducted a hat store on East Strand. Fraternally he was a member of Rondout Lodge of Masons. He was serving as a deacon of the Wurts Street Baptist Church at the time of his death.

Lamont Simpkins was elected president of the Ulster County Auto Club at the annual meeting held on December 14, 1931, at the Garden Rule Inn at Ulster Park.

Other officers elected were Walter Fales, vice president; Ward E. Everett, treasurer, and Benjamin Suskind, secretary.

The directors chosen were Charles Everett, Edward Stanbrough, Clarence Voss, Abram Jansen and Henry A. Lamoureux. For the next two weeks this column will be absent from the pages of The Freeman as the writer is taking his annual vacation during that period.

THERE'S DYNAMITE IN PALESTINE

It does not seem to be generally known that American Jews are strongly divided on the Palestine issue.

If Zionist Jews in America are exercising tremendous pressure on the administration to get the proposed 100,000 displaced Jews of Europe admitted to Palestine—as Britain's Bevin charged in a recent speech—it is just as true that the anti-Zionist Jews are urging their kinsmen to lay off and quit stirring up all feeling for their race. The latter group, much smaller and far less articulate, deserve wider recognition than they have received.

I have a telegram from their principal mouthpiece, the American Council for Judaism, which reads:

"Our program is based on the position that we are Americans of Jewish faith; that we have one and only one national loyalty—loyalty to our homeland, the United States—and that, except for our differing in religious belief from other citizens, we share fully in the life of our country with full equality of rights and responsibilities with all other Americans. This position is in direct contrast to those who seek to organize Jews on a political basis and to have them act as a unit on political matters, whether it be the proposed establishment of a Jewish state in Palestine or pressure politics in this country relating to the same end."

This excellent statement shows its framers clearly understand the danger of racism inherent in the Palestine issue. Palestine is historically an Arab country. It is part of a loosely knit league of states, populated by forty million Arabs. These people say they do not want any more Jews, claiming the Jews import ideology which clashes with theirs and are not willing to be assimilated and become a part of the country as settlers of other racial extraction are assimilated. Their claim that many of the DP Jews are pro-Communist is, of course, well known.

You see, two of the most dangerous issues in the European debacle of the past decade—Communism and "anti-Semitism"—are involved.

What It Means

The British Loan

By SIGRID ARNE

Washington—The U. S. decision to lend Great Britain $3,750,000,000 will mean more business here—as it was intended to do.

Four sections of the United States are likely to feel the shot-in-the-arm first, judging from the announcements of the manner in which the loan will be used. Here they are:

1. and 2.—California-Oregon and Minnesota—where the canned food industry is concentrated. The British government has promised its people a little more food—not much, but more. A good deal of it will be canned food, and much of that will be fruit hungry. Through the war, for six long years, they have waited for the ships nor the money to waste their such luxury. The few fruits that got to Britain became so fantastically expensive that a single pear would bring $3.50.

3. New England—where the textile machinery industry is concentrated. Textiles were one of Great Britain's biggest, pre-war exports abroad. For generations English gingham, percales and chintzes have been the delight of women the world over. But bombs damaged a lot of the machinery, and much of the rest wore out on war jobs, or became antiquated. The British plan to permit the use of a chunk of the U. S. loan to modernize their textile industry. They're banking on it to help pay their way out of their huge war debt, and the new American loan.

4. The Chicago-Columbus-Pittsburgh factories—where coal mining machinery is made. Britain also made much money by the sale of coal to other countries. Now her mines need repairs, and the government says a second good chunk of the loan will be spent fixing them up.

To Move Slowly
It's estimated only some $400,000,000 of the loan will be spent this year. By 1951 the British must have used the whole amount. That means also the 2 per cent interest payments begin, and they continue for 50 years, or until 2001.

By that time the British hope their foreign sales will be large enough both to pay for goods to meet their current needs and also to begin to pay off their debts.

Here's the way the British government plans to dole out the American loan.

Any British importer who wants to buy in the United States must explain his purchase to the Board of Trade. If the board decides either (a) that the purchase is something the British should have even under their "austerity" program, or (b) that the commodity is needed to make some British export more saleable, the government will approve the idea. The importer will get American dollars to pay for his purchases here.

Inflation Worries
Because of the many expenses facing the British government today, there is marked worry in London, as in many capitals, over the dollar they are borrowing. The dollars they are borrowing are worth less, because they can buy less.

Russia has sided against the Jews because Stalin, following Hitler's footsteps, wants to go down to the Mediterranean, and know that forty millions Arabs can't hum, and as a bid for their support he has been willing to do the Jewish fanaticism Communist element.

Britain, holding a thankless mandate over the hot potato, has been forced to take drastic action to keep the peace after Jewish "revolutionary" bands have dynamited military bridges, fired on Tommies, kidnapped British officers.

If we keep poking our noses into the mess and are forced to send troops, as Britain has demanded, our soldiers will have to shoot either Arabs or Jews, neither of whom have any sense, and shooting by or of soldiers can't go forever without starting war. And our soldiers would blame Jews for getting them into the mess.

This is in no respect a question of whether we want to help Jewish DPs of Europe. We are helping them, helping them to a greater extent than we are helping the millions of starving non-Jewish DPs. Reports from Europe show we are giving them preference. It is simply that Palestine is not the solution of none of the problems of the world, and the Jewish people if the issue is forced much farther.

Bevin said "anti-Semitism" has suffered a violent flareup in the British Army as a result of Palestine. The London Daily Mail weekly digest said July 10:

"In Palestine where an armed minority of Zionists is seeking to impose its will on Britain by means of terrorism. This movement is more dangerous because it is highly organized and well equipped. . . . It is tragic . . . that lawlessness in Palestine should apparently have received the approval of some of the most responsible figures of Jewry."

The men of Britain who are being attacked and killed . . . are of the same breed as those who have leashed Jewish victims from the tortures of Belsen and Buchenwald."

Yet the California Jewish Union of July 5, violently attacking Britain, proposed the organization of "A Roosevelt Brigade" to go to Palestine and fight!

What It Means

The British Loan

istics figure which illustrates British worries: it averages on the price increases during the past year on 28 basic commodities (such as wheat and cotton). In those 12 months their prices have jumped 35.6 per cent. Turn that around and you get the picture. A Britisher might have received a year ago with which to buy U. S. commodities is now worth only 64.4 cents.

The fact that the dollar has suddenly lost 35 cents of its value will add to British "choosiness" as a buyer, much as the American buyer is beginning to be choosy. The British are likely to haggard in countries where prices are lower. In many such cases they'll pay in American dollars. Then the second country will have American dollars to spend here. In either case, American sellers stand to benefit, since most every country right now is pressing needs for some American machinery and food.

Around the Circle
For example, if Great Britain decides to buy Egyptian cotton rather than American, and chooses to pay in American dollars, the Egypt will have dollars to spend here. If the British decide to buy most of their wheat in Canada, they probably will, since Canadian wheat can be sold for less than American, then Canada will have more dollars to spend here. In either case, American sellers stand to benefit, since most every country right now is pressing needs for some American machinery and food.

COTTEKILL

Cottekill, July 26—The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies Aid Society will be held at the home of Mrs. Grant Addis after noon of August 1, 2 o'clock.

All members are asked to be present to make plans for the fair of the church grounds, August 15.

Word has been received by Mrs. and Mrs. Oscar Beach that their son, Pvt. Oscar Beach, Jr., stationed at Fort Bliss, Texas, is his basic training.

Arthur Harry Deputy spent his week with his aunt, Mrs. John H. Grane and his grandmother, Mrs. Charlotte Smides in Kingston.

Mrs. William Bendis and family have rented rooms of Mrs. Nora Dubos and moved into them.

Mrs. John Deputy, who suffers severe burns, is still in the Bogardus Hospital. Her condition is slightly improved.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Barnes are having a new well drilled. Oliver Maxwell of Kingston is doing the work.

Karl Strobel of North Bergen, N. J., spent Wednesday with family here.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hicks and son, Robert, had an enjoyable week's vacation. They spent a few days at Lake Sacandaga in Adirondack, visited relatives at Poughkeepsie and spent a week with their sister, Mrs. Ned Wells and family in Gardiner.

Mrs. Jessie Davis spent a week with her daughter, Mrs. Wells in Gardiner and one week with her sister-in-law, Mrs. Christiana in Krumville.

Mrs. Charlotte Smides of Kingston is spending a few days with her daughter, Mrs. Deputy.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

Lots At Stake
 New York, July 27 (AP)—Meat is where you find it these days and apparently worth any amount of trouble to get it.
 So when a thoroughbred Holstein heifer—about to be loaded aboard a vessel—leaped into the Hudson river yesterday, police utilized a tugboat crew, a gang of longshoremen, a police launch, a police emergency squad, and an electric crane to get the animal back ashore.

Barbecue Fire
 Los Angeles, July 27 (AP)—This barbecue fire was about as big as they come. It destroyed the Albert & Zola Barbecue Co., with loss including damage to other buildings, totalling $80,000.

Youthful Appetite Falls Before Peace Offer
 Burbank, Calif., July 27 (AP)—Six young boys paraded before a malt-shop with makeshift placards reading: "We want nickel cones. We want five-cent mixed drinks."

Spokesman Richard Price, 11, explained: "We get 50 cents a week spending money. If we have to pay ten cents for a cone, our standard of living is cut in half."
 What really irks them, the boys said, is no more devil dip (treacle—a ten ounce glass of all flavors, topped by soda water.)

Shop owner W. J. Reagan solved part of the problem. "Come on fellows," he called, "let's all have a devil dip on the house." Picketing ceased abruptly.

Now, About That Driving License
 Warrenton, Ore., July 27 (AP)—Mayor F. M. Wilson ran up against some bad luck when he attempted to pass a city driving license test.

With Examiner A. M. Umbrey, Portland, along to check out the mayor, he gave his brand new car the gas and it roared backward across the street into a cordwood store.

Bystanders scattered, glass shattered.

Recs Will Meet N. Y. Firemen With Trimmed Lineup Tonight

Dick Fitzgerald Or Billy Ostrom Will Face Auer

Four Players Released to Lighten Burden on Local Payroll; Game Starts at 9 in Stadium

Except for nine or more seriously-minded fire fighters of varying ages, the shenanigans at municipal stadium tonight will be strictly a lark for all firemen present.

For the New York Fire Department tosses it will be serious business, this battle against Kingston's revamped and aroused Recreation.

Baseball activities are scheduled for 9 o'clock with either Billy the Kid Ostrom or Dick Fitzgerald on the firing line for Kingston.

Roy Auer, one of the two prominent Auer pitchers of metropolitan district fame, is the Firemen's choice.

The visiting firemen are expected to take over in large numbers. For a majority of them it will be a fitting finale to a day of busy activity starting at 3 o'clock with the Ulster county parade.

Four familiar figures will be missing from the Recreation lineup—Ralph Needham, George Nicholas, Joe Job and Frank Sawicki—all of whom were cast adrift early this week in a move designed to relieve pressure on the payroll.

Were Extra Load Release of the aforementioned quartet is not likely to seriously affect the destinies of the ball club. None of the quartet has been very effective in recent weeks. Sawicki had never really untracked himself. Job's catching performance was spotty, while Nicholas came a cropper with arm trouble.

Manager Hank Damm's metropolitan smoke eaters—one of three New York service teams, the Police and Sanitation being the others—probably will not share the enthusiasm that is bound to be generated throughout the stands. To them the ball game represents serious business. They recall a sound thumping they absorbed last season in an abbreviated contest and acute is the realization that these Recs are a tougher lot than the 1945 aggregation.

Veteran Infield The Firemen have a showy catcher in veteran Matty Rupp, who has been a semi-pro stand-out for a number of years. The Firemen infield is all-veteran with Hank Otten at first; Tom McElroy, second; Gino Catterino, third; and Bob Mendez at shortstop.

In the outfield the Firemen will show Johnny Fernandez in right field; Gene Daley in center; and Dan Howard in left. This starting array is backed up by four pitchers and a host of utility men.

Kingston's lineup is set except for right field where Jimmy Ashdown starts if Ostrom gets the pitching assignment. If Fitzgerald pitches, Billy the Kid takes over the outfield post. The remainder of the lineup is intact with Wahl, Gentile, Pearderson and Shelly forming the inner defense; and Ristau in left and Frankie Bambara in center.

The tentative lineup:
N. Y. Firemen Fernandez, rf. Bambara, cf. Otten, lb. Gentile, 2b. McElroy, 2b. Ristau, lf. Rupp, c. Wahl, 1b. Pearderson, 3b. Ashdown, rf. Shelly, ss. Catterino, 3b. Howard, lf. Ostrom, p. Auer, p.

Umpires—Collyer, plate; Schwab, first base; Murphy, third base.

Two Americans Remain In French Tournament

Paris, July 27 (AP)—The French international tennis championships wind up today with finals in both the men's and women's singles as well as the men's doubles, women's doubles and mixed doubles. Jaroslav Drobny of Czechoslovakia, battles Frenchman Marcel Bernard in the men's division while two Americans, Pauline Betz of Los Angeles, and Margaret Osborne of San Francisco, meet for the women's championship.

Enrique Morera of Argentina and Francisco "Pancho" Segura of Ecuador and the French team of Yvon Petra and Bernard are the doubles finalists. In the mixed doubles, Miss Betz and Budgie Patty of California and Miss Dorothy May Bundy of Santa Monica, Calif., and Tom Brown of San Francisco will contest for the crown.

Mink Is Out on Bail

Bel Air, Md., July 27 (AP)—William F. Mink, Wilmington, Del., charged with conspiracy in the alleged subordination of one horse in another Wednesday in the first race of Bel Air's inaugural day program, was free today on $1,500 bond.

Arrested here yesterday, Mink was released from the Bel Air jail after posting the money.

Falkenburg Is Favored Over Gardner Mulloy

Seabright, N. J., July 27 (AP)—Two Californians, Bob Falkenburg, of Beverly Hills, and Jack Kramer, of Montebello, were favored today to reach the finals of the Seabright invitation tennis tournament at the Seabright Lawn Tennis and Cricket Club.

Falkenburg, who upset top-seeded Billy Talbert, of Wilmington, Del., in the quarter-finals yesterday, was paired against Gardner Mulloy, of Miami, Fla., in a semi-final contest.

Alvaro Russell, of Buenos Aires, in the other semi-final match, defeated the Falkenburg's service was the decisive factor in his unexpected 5-7, 8-6, 6-4 victory over Talbert. The national intercollegiate championship now may sweep through to the title.

Shirley Fry, of Akron, and Mrs. Mary Arnold Prentiss, of Los Angeles, won their way into the finals of the women's competition. Top-seeded Miss Fry beat Dorothy Head of San Francisco while Mrs. Prentiss eliminated Barbara Knise of Berkeley.

Jamaica Track Take Is Less Than 1945

Albany, N. Y., July 27 (AP)—The New York State Tax Commission reported today that state pari-mutuel revenue from this summer's 24-day Empire City meet at Jamaica race track was $53,250, or $213,149 less than the take from last year's 18-day meeting.

This represented a 65 per cent drop. The commission figured a 30 per cent decrease, on an equal length basis.

Average daily pari-mutuel revenue from the year's meeting which ended July 26, was $2,215 compared to $8,194 in 1945.

Barron Is Man To Beat on Home Course in Chicago

White Plains Player Goes One Under in 2nd Round; Teaches At Links

Chicago, July 27 (AP)—Veteran of the links for 25 years, Barron of White Plains, N. Y., was the man to beat in the $50,875 all-American golf tournament as the start of third round play today caught most of the top-flight stars straggling far off the pace.

Barron, one of the few professionals who actually teaches golf at the course he represents, banged around in one-under par 71 yesterday for a 36-hole total of 139, five strokes under standard figures for that distance.

Most of the estimated 32,000 fans—an all-time record for the 6,760 yard Tam O'Shanter's course—were puzzled at the showing in the rich golf circus of such famous "name" players as Byron Nelson, Lloyd Mangrum, Ben Hogan, Sammy Snead and Judge McCaspen and many others.

Adding to the confusion of the throng were such developments as Professor Barron's explanation that he was shooting better golf because of "lessons" he has been taking from Byron Nelson.

"I've been doing all my practicing with Nelson lately and he has completely changed my swing," said Barron, former western open champ. "Where I used to chop in now swinging long and loose. The postgraduate work is paying dividends."

Ellsworth Vines of Chicago, who is best known as a former champion tennis star, was in second place, one strike away at 140. He got a 69 in his second round.

Nelson, who has won four of five previous all-American opens, was in a tie with 15 others for 22nd place. His second round mark was par 72, giving him a 36 hole total of 146.

Three unknowns in the big money circuit, Chick Harbert of Detroit; Claude Harmon of Marion, N. Y., and Dick Metz of Arkansas City, Kas., were grouped at 142.

Asheville, N. C., July 27 (AP)—Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page of Chapel Hill and Margaret Maddox of Atlanta were matched today for the championship of the Baltimore Forest Women's Golf Tournament.

Murray, who recently defeated Jimmy Byrnes of Cleveland and is ranked fifth among the nation's heavyweights, knocked out Daniels in 2-35 of the fourth round of their scheduled 10-rounder, but a crowd of 2,000 only booed and peppered the ring with gravel and cushions.

Better Golf By SAM SNEAD

6. Let's review the explosion shot. The ball is positioned well forward off the left foot and the stance is wide open. Your head is well over the ball. You grip the club low on the leather. The unhurried backswing is very upright and three-quarters full. You start down slowly with that straight left arm and the wrists providing most of the action. You swing slightly outside-in across the direction line with the club in the open face position. The outside-in swing imparts a "cut" spin, to the ball, so that there's very little roll when it drops on the green and at the same time the open club-face shoots the ball straight ahead to the flag. If the club-face is not open you will probably shoot off-line to the left. To make explosion shots well you must practice them frequently so that mentally, you think of them simply as a normal, to be executed, part of your game instead of regarding them as a specialized set of circumstances that you have to fear. The average golfer fears an up-hill lie, a down-hill lie, an explosion shot simply because he doesn't practice them and thus moves them from the extraordinary class to the ordinary class of shots.

Murray, Daniels Lose Out in Pennsylvania

Pittsburgh, July 26 (AP)—Lee O. Murray of Baltimore and Perk Daniels of Chicago today were suspended indefinitely from fighting in Pennsylvania on a state boxing commissioner's complaint they gave an "unsatisfactory performance" in a bout at Civic Arena last night.

Commissioner John W. Montgomery, who made the complaint and ordered the suspension, said it would last until a meeting of the entire three-man commission is held in the case. Purses of the boxers will be withheld similarly, he said after an hour-long hearing held today by him and Chief Deputy Commissioner Lou Shirring.

Nelson Scores Wilson Wyatt

Buffalo, N. Y., July 27 (AP)—Housing Expediter Wilson Wyatt is "the greatest obstacle to securing homes for veterans in the country today," declares Herbert J. Nelson, Chicago, executive vice president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

Criticizing the government's home building program, Nelson told the Buffalo real estate board in a luncheon talk yesterday that the administration's effort "to control all property is the opening step toward the greatest threat to private enterprise in the history of the nation."

Referring to the Wagner-Elender-Taft bill now before Congress, he asserted "public housing is nothing but a political weapon."

He said the restoration of O.P.A. rent and building controls meant "continued delay in providing housing for veterans," and added:

"If they (the government) would turn private industry loose, we could move into a housing program that would take the edge off the housing shortage in a year."

He said a survey he had conducted among 50 builders in 38 states showed that only 27 per cent of them had started last year, only 279 had been finished. Construction was held up, he said, due to shortages, "red tape," and controls.

Nassau's Police Search Cemetery For Logan Slayer

Mineola, N. Y., July 27 (AP)—Nassau county police beat through heavily-wooded Knolls cemetery at nearby Port Washington early today in search for the slayer of socially prominent Mrs. Marjory Church Logan.

But after several hours, the police were withdrawn.

The search was started late last night after several Port Washington officers reported he saw a Negro dash into the cemetery.

Mrs. Logan, 52, wife of a retired banker and former official of the War Production Board, was slain last Wednesday at her home in fashionable Flower Hill and her 26-year old daughter, Marjory Jeanne, was raped and wounded.

The daughter told police the assailant was a Negro with "starey eyes."

The manhunt came after a day in which funeral services were conducted for Mrs. Logan in St. Bartholomew's Church in New York and after police had turned up the first clue in the slaying—a dozen strands of a man's hair, taken from the bed where Miss Logan was raped and shot in the neck and face.

The hair was analyzed yesterday in the police laboratory here. Police said results of the analysis would not be made known immediately.

Police said they had questioned and released several suspects, including one man brought here from Greenwich, Conn., for interrogation.

'Open House' Monday At Canning Center

Monday night from 6 to 10 o'clock "open house" will be held at the Kingston canning center on Flatbush avenue and the By-pass. During those hours there will be canning demonstrations and anyone interested is invited to attend and witness the process. This demonstration is being given to acquaint local people, both from the city and county, with the simplicity of the process.

Operated under the auspices of the Kingston Board of Education as a part of the adult education program, the canning center is open to residents of the city or county. Arrangements may be made for canning by making an appointment either at 3176-R or 1970.

Monday evening the complete process of canning will be demonstrated during the evening.

Decisions Are Imminent

Washington, July 27 (AP)—Announcement of approximately 2,250 decisions involving policies of the Wage Stabilization Board was imminent today on the strength of O.P.A.'s revival. The decisions were held up after O.P.A. lapsed June 30, because W.S.B.'s only way to enforce wage controls was through the government's authority to grant or disapprove price increases to offset wage boosts.

Comptroller General to Get To Ask Gromyko Call by Senate Committee On Enforcement Against A-Bombs

Washington, July 27 (AP)—Widening their war profits inquiry, Senate investigators disclosed today that they will call Comptroller General Lindsay Warren for a report on cases where he has sniffed irregularities but has not been able to do anything about them.

Chairman Mead (D., N. Y.), said the War Investigating Committee will discuss with Warren on Monday the "loopholes" that he has found in the government's machinery for holding down excessive profits on making of military equipment. The committee was in recess today.

Two of the government's principal ways of recapturing undue profits are in machinery for renegotiating and terminating contracts.

The committee already has asked the general accounting office for a report on termination of contracts with the Garsson munitions combine it has been investigating.

Sensors Brewster (R., Me.) and Ferguson (R., Mich.), said it is their understanding that Warren will tell the committee about certain cases in which the G.A.O. believes that irregularities occurred but lacks the definite evidence of fraud it needs to make its own inquiry.

They said the committee expects also to obtain suggestions as to how it can make an overall survey of profits.

In connection with the inquiry into the Garsson combine there were these developments:

Mead led a committee group into a conference with Attorney General Clark at which the New Yorker said the senators would ask for income tax returns of all officers of the Garsson companies and the Cumberland Lumber Co., which Rep. May (D., Ky.), served as Kentucky agent.

Mead declared that the committee will be available when May, whose doctor reported him ill and unable to testify for ten days or two weeks, is able to tell about his relations with the Garsson combine.

Would Ask Brooks
Ferguson demanded that the committee ask Col. Harold Brooks how he happened to give to Maj. Gen. Alden Waitt, chief of the Chemical Warfare Service, a letter from May to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower. Waitt delivered the letter on a trip to Europe during the war. The letter interceded for Capt. Joseph H. Garsson, then facing court martial action for disobeying a command and was sentenced to dismissal from the service but sentence was suspended.

In Batavia, Ill., Garsson, now out of the army, told a news conference that he was in service his commanders were under instructions to "take care of Garsson." He said he believed the influence came "through generals in the chemical warfare branch."

In San Francisco, Maj. Gen. Robert T. Frederick, Garsson's commander during his service in Italy, commented: "I did not receive any instructions to take care of Captain Garsson. During the time he served with me, I was never aware that any influence surrounded him in any way."

In Havana, Murray Garsson, one of the organizers of the combine and father of the former army captain, called the Mead inquiry "a smear campaign."

"All this talk of war profiteering is ridiculous," he added in an interview. "My company made no millions as is charged; our profit was less than six per cent of the invested capital."

His attorney has reported Garsson is remaining in Cuba because of a heart ailment.

In addition to hearing Warren, the committee expects to turn next week to an incident involving Rep. Coffee (D-Wash.), and a $2,500 check from Sivand Anderson, a war contractor.

Predicts Price Law Will Check Inflation Crisis

Washington, July 27 (AP)—O.P.A. Administrator Paul A. Porter predicted today the new price law will "prevent a runaway inflation" but warned that some prices—particularly of clothing—are going to climb.

While his re-born agency scrambled to issue 30 to 40 new price increase orders on top of yesterday's 143, Porter appealed in an address prepared for broadcast (A.B.C.), for consumer help in enforcing the O.P.A. act.

The law "authorizes price increases that 'justify' price increases," he said, "but it will provide a real measure of protection for millions of Americans who simply have no reserves with which to ride out an inflationary storm."

"When prices and rents went on vacation a month ago, they gave us a taste of what a serious inflation might be like."

"We're more determined than ever to prevent inflation in the year ahead."

"If we work and fight together, farmers, housewives and workers—I think there's a good chance the history book will chalk up 1946 as the year in which inflation struck its tail between its legs and started to slink away."

The rain and warm weather this week has expected to force the crop to mature rapidly, with large quantities moving to market the coming week. The Catskill Mountain News says that the local area is not growing as large quantities of cauliflower as it did a few years ago. ## U. N. Members Dissatisfied With Red's Proposal On Way to Deal With Makers

By MAX HARRELSON

New York, July 27 (AP)—Several delegates to the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission indicated today that Soviet Delegate Andrei A. Gromyko would face a barrage of questions next week as to how he proposes to prevent illegal production of atomic weapons.

The delegates were agreed that the production and use of atomic weapons should be outlawed, as Gromyko demanded yesterday, but they were generally dissatisfied with his one brief proposal on the question of enforcement and punishment.

This proposal was that each state, which signs the suggested international convention banning atomic weapons, assumed the responsibility for enforcement within its own borders.

"The draft convention," he said, "contains a provision that the signatory states should within six months of its conclusion enact legislation providing for severe punishment for violators of the convention."

This is wholly in accord with the principles of the United Nations, as with the principles of the sovereignty of member states, and with the principles of the United Nations.

This was his only reference to specific measures to control the great projects which the delegates envision for the development of atomic energy for peaceful uses.

Will Ask Explanation
Each of the speakers who took the floor in the closed meeting to comment on Gromyko's declaration indicated they would try to get him to elaborate on this question when the delegates, meeting as Committee No. 2, get together next Wednesday.

John M. Hancock, representing the United States, said the outlawing of weapons was of great importance and that all the delegates agreed on that, but he said he would be interested in a further expression by Gromyko on how his plan is to become a working project—how it is to be made really effective.

The question the delegates want to go into at the next meeting is whether Russia considers that the only controls necessary are the ones mentioned by Gromyko—controls by the individual states.

At one point, Gromyko indicated that he considered his present proposals only a starting point and that he might be willing to go further if his plan were accepted.

For instance, it was pointed out, he spoke of the prohibition of atomic weapons as "one of the first steps toward the realization of control over atomic energy."

At another point he said that "in a draft convention some details would possibly have to be elaborated by this committee or by the atomic energy commission."

On the other hand, he left no doubt that he still was firmly opposed to a strong international control system such as that proposed by the United States, and indicated that he felt his own plan offered effective and practical measures of control.

He spoke of the proposals of other countries "which on the surface appear to be radical but cannot carry out their goal" and said that in comparison with these the Soviet proposal was a practical one, providing for the immediate and practical steps toward the control over atomic energy.

Binns Says Housing Plan Would Be Harmful
Washington, July 27 (AP)—Arthur B. Binns, president of the National Home and Property Owners' Foundation, contended today that the administration's proposed long-range housing program would "drain valuable labor and material" from veterans housing.

Urging the housing banking committee to defeat legislation for the program, he said in a statement, "this bill is the delegation to the federal bureaucracy of permanent control of shelter."

"To drain available labor and material now from individual veterans' housing under way into huge rehabilitation projects and welfare housing would delay available housing for veterans," he added.

The banking committee reopened hearings on the bill under urging from President Truman that it act before adjournment. House leaders said, however, that they saw little chance of getting the measure through.

The bill, sponsored by Senators Wagner (D-N.Y.), Ellender (D-La.) and Taft (R-Ohio), has passed the Senate.

It is aimed at promoting construction of 15,000,000 new dwelling units in the next 10 years through an increased public housing program and an expansion of F.H.A. mortgage insurance.

The measure also provides for federal loans to help cities rehabilitate "blighted" and slum areas.

The World Today

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin is one of Europe's most outspoken statesmen, as witness his blunt assertion during debate in the House of Commons that the Austrian situation "is very delicate at the present moment" and that he didn't know "whether Eastern Austria may even be cut off."

This statement of course is interpreted as referring to the possibility that Eastern Austria—which is occupied by Russia and contains the major portion of the country's industrial capacity—may be severed and become a unit in the permanent Soviet zone of influence. Startling as that may seem, coming from a foreign minister, it is no surprise to observers who long have noted that control of all Austria appeared to be one of Moscow's objectives.

What spurred Mr. Bevin to this frankness was sharp criticism leveled at him by several members of Commons for his agreement at the Big Four foreign ministers' conference in Paris that Italy should be permitted to retain the South Tyrol. He defended the action on the ground that it should be considered in relation to the whole European situation and not as an independent matter. It was then that he referred to the delicacy of the Austrian situation and pointed out that she had not yet achieved independence.

Bevin might have added—though he did not—that the Big Three agreed to the independence of Austria at the Moscow conference of 1944 and reaffirmed it later. Austrian independence is a matter of great concern to the Western Allies in the rehabilitation of Europe, and the western powers have grown increasingly distrustful.

One of the most striking indications of Russia's intentions came three weeks ago when, without consulting the other Allies, she announced that she had taken over ownership of most of Austria's industries and other property in the Soviet zone as German reparations.

Garsson Claims Its Smear Campaign, Is Ill in Havana

Anxious to Recover So He Can Return to U. S. for Defense; Praises Firm

Havana, Cuba, July 27 (AP)—Murray Garsson, a director in a munitions combine, whose wartime earnings are under scrutiny of a U. S. Senate investigating committee says "my company made no millions as is charged—our profit was less than six per cent of the invested capital."

"This is a smear campaign, which is not proving anything in connection with the war effort," he said. "I am a 56-year-old industrialist declared in an interview here yesterday, as he lay in bed in the Hotel Nacional suite beside a table covered with medicines. He said the medicines were for a heart ailment."

"If I were a Jesse James and a Robin Hood in one, I would still deserve praise for the accomplishment of my firm in the war effort," Garsson said.

He added that he was anxious to recover his health so he could return to the United States to defend himself. He will appear before the Senate committee, he said, as soon as his doctors and his attorney, Wayne Johnson, approve.

Garsson expressed the opinion that his firm should be granted the Congressional Medal for its contribution to the war effort.

"Our company rejected 200,000 shells built by other concerns and which were submitted to a test method devised by Dr. Henry Garsson (his brother), proved to be defective," Garsson asserted, adding that "if those shells, which had already been approved by the government inspectors, had gone to the front, they might have caused the death of many American soldiers."

Regarding reports that Rep. Andrew J. May had endorsed checks issued by his company, Garsson said that May had helped his company, but derived no profit from such aid.

Authenticity Attacked
Paris, July 27 (AP)—David Ben-Gurion, chairman of the Jewish Agency, attacked today the authenticity of the telegrams referred to in Britain's recent White Paper on Palestine and said British policy was aimed at "destroying the Jewish community in Palestine." In a press conference Ben-Gurion indicated that the Jewish Agency would issue a "black paper" to list what he said had been acts of "British violence" and "terrorism" in Palestine.

Leaves Home to Masons
It is announced that Mrs. Mary Elting Williams, who died at Highland Sunday, left her 12-room house on Main street, Highland, to Adonai Lodge, F. & A. M. for use as a Masonic temple. Mrs. Williams was the sister of the late Philip Elting, who was prominent in Masonry.

Fallon Is Pushed To Island Sands For Future Study

Board U.S.S. Mt. McKinley off Bikini, July 27 (AP)—The transport Fallon, badly battered by the force of Thursday's underwater atomic bomb, was pushed up on the sands of Enyu Island today by tugboats which braved radioactive Bikini lagoon to save the ship for study.

Shifting winds and currents sent radioactivity soaring in the inner target area, hampering salvage operations and delaying attempts to assess over-all damage more thoroughly.

Boarding parties were put on some of the vessels, but there still was only limited small boat activity near the target array. Vice Adm. W. H. P. Blandy, atom test commander, said he could not predict when inner targets might be boarded. It would still be two or three days, he said, before the support fleet moved into former anchorages at the eastern end of the lagoon.

Blandy met today with members of atom test evaluation boards but issued no new statement on the destruction wrought by the underwater blast.

Reports from Associated Press correspondents who viewed the fleet from sea and air indicated at least 13 vessels sunk or damaged, including:

Sunk—The battleship Arkansas, carrier Saratoga, an oil tender, two or three submarines.

Disintegrated—The landing ship from which the bomb was suspended.

Listing—The Japanese battleship Nagato, battleship New York, a transport, a destroyer.

Beached—The transport Fallon, destroyer Hughes.

Overturned—An LST (landing ship, tank).

The condition of several submarines, lying on the bottom of the lagoon, remained a mystery. Another, the Tuna, was surfaced and, from the air, appeared to be undamaged. The grimy battleship Nagato, listing badly, appeared to have dipped no farther today and was not considered in immediate danger of sinking.

Reuner Reopens

Monument Works

Herbert H. Reuner has reopened the monument works located at 21-28 Hurley avenue.

Started by Mr. Reuner's father in 1911, the Hurley avenue yard has been closed for the past three years while the present owner served with the armed forces from February 1943 to May 1946. The Reuner yard is completely equipped for any type of monumental work and has on display a large stock of monuments and markers. A large neon sign was recently erected in front of the yard by the Modern Sign Studios.

Ultraviolet lamps will purify the air some future railway passengers will breathe.

Firemen Complete Convention Business

Members of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association filled the big New York State armory, Manor avenue, last night for the annual convention meeting and discuss final plans for the annual mammoth parade today. After last night's business session, a turkey dinner was served. (Freeman Photo) of the various fire organizations as the convention was called to order at 8:30 o'clock by Acting President Edward Mains. The invocation was made by the Rev. Frank L. Gollnick, pastor of Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church of this city, who is chaplain of the Kingston Fire Department.

Schwenk Extends Welcome

The welcome of the city to the firemen was extended by Alderman-at-large John J. Schwenk, in the absence of Mayor W. F. Edmuth. He spoke briefly saying that Kingston was proud to entertain the county firemen and he hoped that their stay in the city would prove both pleasant and profitable. President Mains responded briefly.

Memorial Service

A memorial service was held in memory of William White and Philip Fischer, Sr. members of the St. Remy Fire Department, and Michael Howard, a member of Rescue Hook & Ladder Co., who had died since the last convention. The memorial prayer was delivered by Monsignor Martin J. Drury of St. Mary's Church.

The Speaking Program

Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy introduced the speakers of the evening. Harry Rigby, representing the Chamber of Commerce, extended the welcome of that organization to the firemen, and said that the Chamber of Commerce was organized not only to build up Kingston but the entire county.

Cashin, Wicks Speak

County Judge John E. Cashin and Senator Arthur H. Wicks in their addresses pointed out to the volunteer firemen were the backbone of the American way of life, and that as long as such organizations as volunteer fire departments continued to exist, there was no question that democracy would continue to flourish.

Seth T. Cole, attorney of the New York State Volunteer Firemen's Association, gave a brief resume of the action taken by the state legislature during 1946 in behalf of the volunteer firemen of the state.

The speaking program closed with an address by George L. Swan, assistant chief engineer of the National Board of Fire Underwriters who gave a word picture of firemen affairs in England, France and Germany and compared the working of the fire departments of those countries with the work of the American fire departments.

Excellent Vaudeville

An excellent program of vaudeville arranged by Peter Keresman of the entertainment committee, followed the speaking program. All of the acts were top flight ones, and had been obtained through the Shea Theatrical Agency.

The vaudeville show proved one of the finest ever presented at a firemen's convention in Kingston and all of the acts were heartily applauded.

Annual Banquet

The annual convention banquet was served at the close of the program in the big drill shed at the armory, where tables had been set up and a turkey dinner served the 100 delegates and guests.

The convention closed this afternoon with the firemen's parade a feature that had been omitted during the war years.

Decrease in Infantile

Trenton, N. J., July 27 (AP)—Only 18 cases of infantile paralysis were reported to the state department of health since the first of the month as compared to 150 cases in July last year. Dr. J. Lynn Mahaffey, director of health reported today that the state is bringing the total so far this year to 38, Mahaffey said.

New Zealand Imports

Imports of unassorted trucks into New Zealand from the United States in 1946 may prove a total value of approximately $2,000,000, and of passenger cars about $428,000.

O'Dwyer Plans to Use City Labor on Vet Homes

New York, July 27 (AP)—Mayor William O'Dwyer arranged today to use city labor for work on two veterans housing projects which is being held up by a strike of A.F.L. plumbers. The projects are designed to house about 1,900 families.

The mayor's proposal was endorsed by Howard McSpedon, president of the A.F.L. Building and Construction Trades Council, who said he felt sure that leaders of the city's building trades would also go along with the plan.

Under the proposal, plumbers holding city jobs would be assigned to the work. About 50 men would be required to do the work.

O'Dwyer declared that high A.F.L. officials, including President William Green, had cooperated with him in attempting to get the members of Local 2 of the United Association of Journeymen, Plumbers and Steamfitters to resume work on the projects, but to no avail.

The local has refused to accept an A.F.L. decision against it in a jurisdictional dispute with the International Indecarriers, Building and Common Laborers Union as to which group should lay non-metallic sewer piping.

Firemen's Parade Begins at 3 P. M. From East Strand

the line of march were jammed with men, women and children all in a holiday spirit.

Night service on the Kingston-Rhinecliff ferry was expected to bring thousands of Dutchess county visitors to the city, but many more would have attended if it were not for the fact that today was also a big day in Hudson where the annual convention of the Columbia county volunteer firemen was being held.

The last trip of the ferry from Kingston this evening was slated for 11:30 o'clock.

On the sidewalk in front of the city hall had been set up a grandstand from which the parade was reviewed by city and county officials.

Five taps on the city fire alarm system, sound the start of the parade this afternoon.

Dispute Over Chorus May Disrupt Opera

New York, July 27 (AP)—A labor row threatened today to disrupt plans for the 1946-47 season of the Metropolitan Opera Association.

The dispute centers about the association's decision to reduce the chorus from 94 singers to 78.

The Opera Association said in a statement yesterday that this action was opposed by the A.F.L. American Guild of Musical Artists, which insists that there be no reduction and that "final determination in the discharge of failure to re-engage any chorists" rest with the union.

Pay increases and changes in working conditions which would add about $150,000 to the Metropolitan budget for the coming season also have been demanded, the association said.

Opera cannot continue under the conditions which the A.G.M.A. seeks to impose," said George A. Sloan, chairman of the Association's board of directors. "The whole future of the opera, particularly the future of the next season, is uncertain."

Premier Sentenced

Versailles, July 27 (AP)—The high court of justice sentenced Etienne Flaminio, pre-war French premier, to five years of national indignity last night for collaborating with the Nazis during the occupation of France, and then pardoned him because of his patriotic actions after resigning from the Vichy government.

Complete Arrangements

Meeting with Commandant J. R. Mayone of the Marine Corps League, Kingston All Star ballplayers completed arrangements for the benefit game scheduled for Sunday night, August 4, at the Kingston-Rhinecliff ferry.

Opposition will be furnished by a club from West Point, made up of the best talent on the military reservation.

Conflict Is Ahead Over Red Demands For Reparations

see the secretary of state board his plane at Washington airport about noon. There was more than the usual fanfare scheduled for the departure, for the White House said Byrnes' fellow candidate members and Chief Justice Vinson would also join in the send-off.

In Byrnes' plane party were Mrs. Byrnes, Assistant Secretary of State and Mrs. Will Clayton, State Department Counselor Ben Cohen and Byrnes' secretary, Miss Cassa Connor.

Reviews His Projects

Byrnes briefly reviewed some of his Paris projects at a news conference. He said that he planned on Monday to confer with the three American members of a joint Anglo-American committee on Palestine. The aim is to fix American policy on the committee's proposal for partitioning Palestine between Jews and Arabs in connection with the plan for immigration of 100,000 Jews.

It was learned from informed persons that the British are ready to accept the principle of the immediate immigration of 100,000 Jews, as urged by Mr. Truman, but feel the project cannot be carried out until further conferences with Jewish and Arab leaders.

On another aspect of his Paris mission, Byrnes said that he expected American troops to be withdrawn from Italy within 90 days after the Italian peace treaty is signed.

On most major issues, he made clear, the United States is already committed to act with the other great powers—Russia, Britain and France—as a result of compromise agreements made in the recent foreign minister conferences. However, on issues on which no final commitment has been made the United States will have the right to fight for its own solution.

In the case of Hungary, the treaty worked out by the foreign ministers provides for reparations payments of $200,000,000 to Czechoslovakia, but the United States has specifically reserved the right to demand a revision of this section. Last night's disclosures of the protest to Russia made it appear certain that such a demand would be made.

Headquarters and district office staffs strove to prepare new community food price lists to replace those made obsolete by the new law while enforcement plans were intensified. One official said, however, that the slash in O.P.A.'s appropriation to $75,000,000 had clouded previous plans to double the compliance force of 5,000 agents and aides.

Congress Is Sure Truman Will Okay Reorganization

Washington, July 27 (AP)—Congress looked with confidence today for President Truman's approval of a sweeping legislative reorganization and pay boost plan, but less sure on how the succeeding Congress will accept it.

The plan reduces the number of House committees from 48 to 19 and the number of Senate committees from 33 to 15. Congress, when it gathers next January, may decide more are needed.

Committee chairmanships are juicy political plums and—since each house retains a right to establish whatever committees it chooses—either branch of the new Congress could by its own action broaden the abbreviated committee structure contained in the reorganization plan.

One of the committee consolidations moves the military and naval committees of each chamber into single committees for the armed forces. But most of the committees abolished always have been relatively inactive.

Senate concurrence by voice vote yesterday in House amendments sent the legislation to the White House.

Clothing Cost Will Increase

terdays and today's actions, though they covered literally thousands of consumer and industrial items, all were "in the works" when O.P.A. expired on June 30.

The new increases still must be figured out.

Meantime, the White House was watched closely for three major appointments—the members of the Price Decontrol Board which is empowered to give O.P.A. orders to knock out controls or restore them on any product.

Board's Biggest Job

The board's first and biggest job is to decide whether ceilings should go back August 21 on meat and dairy products, grains, cottonseed and soybeans. It must also decide whether poultry, eggs, petroleum and tobacco and their products stay control-free after that date, as they will in the absence of board action.

Headquarters and district office staffs strove to prepare new community food price lists to replace those made obsolete by the new law while enforcement plans were intensified. One official said, however, that the slash in O.P.A.'s appropriation to $75,000,000 had clouded previous plans to double the compliance force of 5,000 agents and aides.

Prices May Jump

Automobile prices, it was learned, may jump higher under the new law than O.P.A. previously calculated. They may go up $100 for a lower-priced car instead of only $75. The new car regulation is expected soon.

In accordance with the new law, it will restore dealers' pre-war profit margins which O.P.A. had sought, under the old law, to reduce.

The flood of price increases and exemptions which kept coming until night fall yesterday covered a vast number and variety of goods. By themselves, however, they will not tilt the cost of living sharply, officials said.

The major moves included: A five and one-half percent boost on household oil burners; five cents a pair more for rubber heels; six to eight cents more a ton for household coal; one to six cents more a pair for some work gloves; eight per cent more for nearly one-third of all types of shoes manufactured; one to three cents more each for inexpensive pieces of chinaware, and three and one-half to seven per cent more for cotton rugs.

Loughrans Win 11 to 0

In a senior Park League baseball game at Loughran Park Friday night the Loughran Park team defeated Hutton Park 11 to 0. Batteries were, Loughran Park—Mains and Glaser; Hutton Park—Appa and Hinkley. Mains had 16 strikeouts to his credit and allowed but two hits. Ed Weaver came in from a homer.
